London Chamber of Commerce and Industry (LCCI) started a vocational training programme in 1887 for its member organisations, which has become the world's largest international vocational training programme today, available in over 120 countries.

London Chamber of Commerce and Industry International Qualifications (LCCI IQ) have been recognised and respected by employers, governments, universities and professional bodies worldwide. In 2003 the London Chamber of Commerce and Industry Examinations Board merged with Goal assessments, a pioneer in online testing, to form Educational Development International (EDI), thus the name LCCI International Qualifications from EDI. EDI is one of the UK's leading awarding bodies accredited by the British government. EDI works closely with Ministries of Education around the world.

LCCI International Qualifications are offered through a growing network of around 5,000 schools, colleges, universities and private training or counselling institutes registered as training centres and supported by extensive learning resources and are administered online. Around 250,000 students are annually awarded with the qualification throughout the world. In many of these countries, LCCI is a household name when it comes to help for career building, nationally or globally, for today's increasingly competitive and sophisticated business environment.
